The 10th Anniversary edition of Miggle Toys' Official Electric Football Super Bowl & Convention promises to be the one Electric Football event of the year that you will not want to miss!

Part celebration...part fan-fest...part EF crafts fair...part reunion...and all Electric Football fun, action, competition, entertainment and camaraderie—the event returns to the Greater Chicago Area (Deerfield, IL) over the weekend of January 23-25, 2004.

There will be constant surprises, prizes and activities for adults, teens and youngsters all weekend long. NFL sponsors and licensees have been asked once again to contribute valuable licensed products to the festivities, and many other surprises and gifts are on the schedule. Maybe even a celebrity or two will stop by.

Michael and Delayne Landsman, owners and marketers of Electric Football games and accessories, are proud to announce that the 10th Annual Official

Electric Football Super Bowl & Convention will be returning to the Chicago vicinity after a six year hiatus—and the host site will be the beautiful Embassy Suites, Chicago North Shore/Deerfield, just 14 miles north of O'Hare Airport and less than 25 miles from Downtown Chicago.

Of course, the weekend will include the usual breathtaking excitement of the EFL Wild Card and League Champions tournaments, the Conference title games and the Super Bowl of Electric Football 10. Add in the Jr. and Sr. Spark Bowl tourneys for the youngsters, and there promises to be mile-a-minute action from the Friday night Welcome Reception & Dinner to the last play of the Super Bowl on Sunday afternoon.

ATTENTION! EFL BIG WITH THE MILITARY

All around the world—wherever electricity has been available—our country's service men and women have been turning to Electric Football as a means of relaxation, entertainment and camaraderie. Plugged In! has reached out to several of the valiant members of the U.S. Military who play Electric Football to find out how our popular game fits into their demanding lives.

The shockwaves felt across the Pacific Ocean at Fort Shafter on the island of Oahu, Hawaii, have not been from any recent volcanic eruptions—but rather from some thrilling Electric Football games, thanks to Sergeant Rodney Taylor.

Originally from Midland, PA, Sgt. Taylor picked up an Electric Football game at a Toys R US near the base about a year ago and started a real buzz by playing the game he treasured as a kid.

Taylor admitted that interest started out slowly until two more EFL players, Sgt. Thomas Duval and Sgt. Tony Stevens, joined Taylor's unit at Fort Shafter. "It was great when they came along. We play as often as we can and are in the process of starting up a league," stated Taylor. "The difference between this game and what is going on in the world is win, lose or draw, we all have peace in the end."

Sgt. Duvall, from Sandusky, OH, did not realize how popular Electric Football still was until Taylor re-introduced the game to him. Duvall told Plugged In!: "Playing EF is a great way to unwind and at the same time enjoy camaraderie with other soldiers. With the constant threat of being deployed to a combat zone, it is an excellent way to have fun and take your mind off of the job."

Sgt. Stevens, of Stevenson, AL, agreed, describing the game as "a great stress reliever where one can apply defensive and offensive tactics."

According to these three men, the hobby has been growing as a pastime among many of the soldiers at Fort Shafter—from the ranks of Lt. colonels down to the non-commissioned officers and from the U.S.A. to Afghanistan and beyond.

Another military Coach who is well-known to the EFL community is 37-year-old Jerry McGhee, a U.S. Air Force major stationed at Langley Air

A LETTER FROM THE COMMISSIONER MICHAEL LANDSMAN

Michael Landsman, Commissioner

As I sit here in my office outside Chicago with my wife, Delayne, it is hard for me to believe it has been nearly 10 years since we at Miggle Toys flew the four winners of our inaugural "Videotape Contest" into the Windy City to compete in the very first Official Electric Football Super Bowl tournament.

Mark and Bill Klingbeil competed as a tandem and won that initial EFL Super Bowl in the top floor "function room" of Michael Jordan's Restaurant. I recall that a few Electric Football enthusiasts called and asked if they could display some of their hand-painted figures and personally built stadiums during the competition—and when we agreed, the future Super Bowl tournaments evolved into full-fledged "conventions."

Once the idea for an Official Electric Football Super Bowl & Convention caught on among coaches from all over the country, Miggle Toys realized two things: we needed to relocate our event into larger quarters...and it would be a great idea to emulate the NFL and move our climactic, season-ending event to various host cities around the U.S. each year.

Following this determination, Miggle Toys transferred the Official EFL Super Bowl & Convention to a major downtown Chicago hotel in 1996 and 1997, then held the event in Cleveland (1998), Philadelphia (1999), Washington, DC (2000), the Pro Football Hall of Fame in Canton, OH (2001), Memphis, TN (2002) and the College Football Hall of Fame in South Bend, IN (2003) in subsequent years.

But what has made all of these events so successful (they continue to grow in popularity, participation and attendance each year) are you, the coaches, who support our game, publicize and promote it whenever and wherever you can and reach out to others to help it grow and thrive year after year.

As the only company in our industry to be officially licensed by the National Football League, Miggle Toys continuously strives to expand and improve our product line. In just the last few years, for example, we have introduced our ABC Monday Night Electric Football Game & Stadium, our Electronic Scoreboard, a myriad of various playing and sideline figures and bases, storage and travel cases for EFL teams, a deluxe Electric Football Table, our ProLine collection and now portable Electric Football.

Perhaps the most exciting and inspiring part of sponsoring our annual Super Bowl & Convention—in addition to your never-ending creativity and expertise that has taken this game to a whole new level of play each year—is seeing the growth in popularity and participation of our game among our younger people. Each year, more and more coaches attend our weekend spectacles with their spouses and children...all of whom also seem to be avid Electric Football players. One year soon, I expect to see as many coaches competing in our Jr. and Sr. Spark Bowl tournaments for kids as in our regular EFL Super Bowl tourney.

As you can see, I am very energized and optimistic about the future of our great game. What started as a simple idea to get a few Electric Football fans together for a weekend of fun, competition and camaraderie in Chicago...has grown by leaps and bounds to attract hundreds of attendees each year, the attention of the national media and both of the sport's halls of fame and the support of so many of you. For that we say a huge "THANK YOU"—and we look forward to seeing you in the Chicago area over the weekend of January 23-25, 2004.

See you around the gridiron!

WATT'S THE BUZZ AT MIGGLE TOYS?

EFL UNPLUGGED!

Electric Football without the cord and plug? That's right! Called Stats Arcade Tudor Electric Football, it is available exclusively at Toys R Us now and for the holiday season. This game is a portable, battery operated generic version of Electric Football, 22" x 13" x 1" in size.

But, will it offer the familiar buzz? "Of course it will," stated Miggle Toys president Michael Landsman. "Only now you will be able to take it with you and play it anywhere at anytime," he said. "Imagine playing Electric Football in a dormitory, at the beach or park, in the backseat of a car or at ANY military base in the world. In addition, in 2004, we will be marketing a deluxe, portable, battery operated NFL version with teams in their official uniforms—AND portable Horse Racing and Car Racing games. No longer will players need to be next to an electric outlet to enjoy our electric games, and best of all—these games will all be popularly priced!"

NEW MIGGLE WEBSITE

The first viewing of Miggle Toys' new website, which will debut in a two-step process, will be on or around October 31, 2003, and will provide visitors with more information and better navigation to see Miggle products and learn about the game's history, while offering an easier shopping experience in our Online Store. All credit card transactions will be protected over the Internet with GUARANTEED Verisign Online Security.

The second step of our new website will be to re-vamp our Chatboard as soon as all the details are worked out. We invite you to enjoy our new website and hope you find it much more "user-friendly."

SPEED BASES A BIG HIT

We are more than pleased with the favorable reactions to the first release of our new Speed Bases in the ProLine collection that were introduced this past summer. One tip: we may have been slightly optimistic—you may have to gently brush the top of the prongs backward with your fingers until they curl toward the back—then watch them go!

Not only do these bases fit the '67 Big Men, but they also fit the smaller players, as well—just

GETTING CONNECTED WITH... TYRONE WILLINGHAM

Coach Willingham

Second year Notre Dame head football coach Tyrone Willingham became an idol to all EFL coaches last December when he announced on ESPN—upon receiving the prestigious George Munger College Coach of the Year Award—that his inspiration for becoming a coach was the Electric Football game he played as a youth. The “lessons” have really paid off, as his Fighting Irish went 10-3 in 2002, following a disappointing 5-6 record the year before.

An outstanding quarterback and flanker at Michigan State, Willingham has been coaching football for 25 years. A native of Jacksonville, NC, he spent seven years as head coach at Stanford before taking the Notre Dame post.

Willingham spent time on the phone with PLUGGED IN! just before the start of the 2003 season, and here are highlights of that conversation:

PLUGGED IN! (PI!): What was your motivation for mentioning Electric Football on national TV when you won the Coach of the Year Award?

TW: I was asked at the time, “Did you always know you wanted to be a coach,” and I responded, no...but also said that in looking back at my childhood, things that happened or things I did back then, now appear to have pointed me in that direction. I said that I received an Electric Football game as a Christmas present when I was in my early teens, and we played with it a lot. That certainly was one motivation of mine.

PI!: Did you have siblings when you were growing up?

TW: Yes, I was the oldest of four. I have one brother, Jerome, and two sisters, Joyce and Gail.

PI!: With whom did you usually play?

TW: I usually played with my brother.

PI!: But we understand you also had an unusual way of utilizing the figures.

TW: Yes, I did. Often I would play by myself, setting up the players in different offensive formations on the EFL board, and going through different plays to see how each player should react. Most times I would not even turn on the electricity, just moving the figures by hand. Looking back now, that sure was the beginning of my coaching enthusiasm.

PI! Did you and your brother also play real football?

TW: Yes, we did. We started out as young kids in the midget leagues, then went on to junior high football and I went on to high school and college football at Michigan State University.

PI! What other types of sports board games did you and your brother play growing up?

TW: To our knowledge, there were no other football games other than Electric Football. It was the game of choice back then—much like youngsters today like to play computer games. When you had an Electric Football set back then, you were something special.

PI! If you were going to try to introduce Electric Football to teenagers today—since, of course, it is still available to them—what do you think you would tell them?

TW: The difference is that the Electric Football game allowed the child to have more imagination. Obviously, with the more electronic and computer games, everything is more laid out for the children. But with Electric Football you have to employ your imagination—and that is a wonderful thing to stimulate in any learning environment.

PI! How does the social aspect of Electric Football compare with today's electronic and computer games in your opinion?

TW: Electric Football allows for the growth of the individual in terms of social adjustment—not just communication skills or speaking with someone else—but also for setting rules and having a particular procedural aspect added to your play. I think the socialization of the individual is enhanced because of the nature of the game.

PI! Do you have any children?

TW: I have two teenage daughters and one teenage son..

PI! We would like to send a game to you to play with your children.

TW: That would be great—I know they will love it.

PI! Good luck this year coach.

TW: Thanks. And good luck to all the EFL Coaches out there. ■

Watt's The Buzz At Miggle Toys?

slide the player in place and then pinch the hooks down on the top of the base. Our next release will be the Extra Strong Base, also with rounded front, followed by both the Speed Base and the Extra Strong Base in straight (traditional) fronts. We feel these bases will not only increase your enjoyment of Electric Football, but will also create new challenges by making the game more realistic—all part of Miggle's commitment to you to make the best possible, most diverse and most high quality game possible. Note: ALL OTHER (STANDARD) MIGGLE BASES ARE ALSO AVAILABLE.

Here are a few testimonials about the Speed Bases ...

- I think these will soon go down as the best bases ever produced. I'm very impressed. Thanks again Miggle.
- These are superb bases and are performing well at all my positions.
- I DID get some positive results and noticed these bases ARE faster than my others.
- I got a receiving corp that's going to open up my running game.
- The teams that have these bases will rush the QB better, get more open receivers, will be stronger, run faster and so on.
- Open your minds a little and look at the possibilities they provide!!! The pass rush will be so much better, tight ends will be more involved in the passing game, and receivers will be able to get downfield more often. Personally, I LOVE the opportunity the new bases provide. They will become “difference makers” on the field as you'll have to approach them in a new way.

- Your ProLine bases offer everyone another choice and another way to play the game. Having more choices increases the chances for more individuals to enjoy the game.
- ProLine bases, along with the ProLine bases yet to be released, are the FUTURE of electric football. Embrace the challenge and I think you will improve your coaching and your enjoyment of the game.

COLLEGE TEAMS—STILL WEEKS AWAY

We have been in long and arduous renegotiations with the licensing agent that represents college teams. At press time, we learned that the delay is due to the individual schools' lateness with their approvals. We sincerely apologize that we are still unable to offer college teams at this time, but expect to be able to do so within a few weeks. Please check on our website for this announcement. Your patience is very much appreciated. ■

SHOCK WAVES!

FUTURE BUZZ BOWL COACHES BORN

Three-time EFL Super Bowl Champion Ron Bell and his wife Tessie welcomed their newborn daughter, Brenna Marie, into the world on April 12, 2003. Big step-brother Blake, age 11, reports that Brenna is "the cutest little girl I've ever seen." An Assistant District Attorney in New Orleans, Bell captured EFL Super Bowls 6, 7 and 8.

At Ohio State University Hospital on July 3, 2003, another beautiful young lady, Ahmaya Renee, was born to parents Aaron and Donielle Johnson. Miggle Toys' 2002 Player of the Year and a budding TV show producer, confirmed: "Fortunately, Ahmaya looks just like her mother!"

Everyone at Miggle Toys and throughout the Electric Football community wish moms, dads and daughters the best of health and happiness always!

EFL IN PACKERS' HALL OF FAME

LET'S FACE IT: Ben Neuhauser of LaGrange, CA, inspects his custom-made Green Bay Packers figures who were left behind when their 'teammates' were sent to the Packers new Hall of Fame this summer.

After holding its Convention in the Pro Football Hall of Fame in 2001 and the College Football Hall of Fame in 2003, Electric Football is now a part of a third notable football Hall of Fame thanks to the efforts of long time EFL enthusiast Ben Neuhauser.

Neuhauser, a marketing manager who grew up in Northern Wisconsin and now resides in La Grange, CA, saw a posting on the Green Bay Packers' official website inviting fans to send the team photos and memorabilia demonstrating their greatest Packers fan experiences. The first thing that came to Ben's mind was his first Electric Football set, which he received as a gift in 1967 when the Pack were champions of the world and the Super Bowl was in its earliest days.

So Ben sat down and composed a letter to the Packers explaining how much his Electric Football collection and playing the game itself meant to him and many other kids of his generation. Along with his letter he sent photos of his original playing field and his Packers players.

In late June, Neuhauser received a letter from the Packers stating that a portion of his Electric Football collection, including a few of his custom-made EF figures, had been accepted for display in the Fan Memorabilia section of the new Green Bay Packers Hall of Fame, located in the recently renovated Lambeau Field.

And what does Neuhauser think of this remarkable honor? "Now, among the jerseys worn by Bart Starr and Don Hutson, the cleats worn by Ray Nitschke and the Vince Lombardi trophies," he wrote on the Miggle.com chatboard, "Electric Football will be taking its rightful place!"

Congratulations to Ben on a magical achievement.

PITTSBURGH EFL & STEELERS: 2003

The EFL's 2002 Newcomer of the Year, Rob Delmasse of the Pittsburgh EFL (PEFL), reports that relations are expanding between his League and the Pittsburgh Steelers in 2003.

New and old Electric Football enthusiasts came out to the Pittsburgh Steelers' Fan Blitz on NFL Draft Day 2003 to enjoy competition and learn more about the game for the second year in a row.

For the second year in a row, the PEFL participated in the team's Fan Blitz at Heinz Field in conjunction with the 2003 NFL Draft—and this time Rob and his fellow coaches held competitions and distributed trophies in three divisions: Youth, Junior & Adult.

Rob also noted that the PEFL taped the Steelers' second season of "Great Moments in EFL History" in early August, which again will be shown on the stadium's Jumbotron during half-time of Steelers games. "For this year's taping," Rob stated, "we created all new figures to add a humorous side to this EFL promotion. The tapes personalize the EF figures to a story-like theme. It's a bit different—but quite enjoyable."

To contact Rob Delmasse, e-mail him at: rd20@andrew.cmu.edu.

NEW LEAGUE STRETCHES FROM DEEP SOUTH TO DC

What's next— an Intergalactic EFL?

Until then, credit for the most sprawling and expansive Electric Football League most probably should go to the Coaches in the new South Eastern Electric Football Club, which includes seven states (Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, South Carolina and Tennessee) plus the District of Columbia.

According to League spokesman Steve Graham, who e-mailed this information to Mr. and Mrs. Landsman and Ira H. Silverman at press time for this issue, the new group will play bi-monthly, beginning on Oct. 20, 2003, at the Comfort Inn in Birmingham, IL, with their initial season taking a full year to play. A total of 16 Coaches will participate, many of whom will lead two teams into battle.

Among the other notable SEFC members are David Nickles, John Oubree, Vance Warren and Kenny Lang. Their web page is: <http://hometown.aol.com/stgraham1964/myhomepage/club.html>. ■

EFL CONVENTION RE-CONNECTS OLD PALS

Did you ever wonder what happened to that neighborhood kid with whom you used to ride bikes, play ball and, most of all, challenge to games of Electric football?

Over the past decade, the Electric Football Conventions have brought back childhood memories—the BUZZ of the game reminding many of us of the countless hours spent playing the game with our friends and families. At the Miggle Toys Conventions, we have watched families grow, friendships blossom and even become the destination for a wedding and honeymoon—but for Chris LeMay, now of Antioch, TN, and Anthony Fox, a current resident of Chapmansboro, TN, Electric Football has reunited a childhood friendship.

In January 2002, just prior to Super Bowl 8 in Memphis, TN, LeMay and his stepson Ben were featured on the front page of The Tennessean, the major daily newspaper in their area, in an article that focused on their interest in Electric Football and how they were planning to attend the Convention in Memphis.

Unbeknownst to LeMay, Fox, who also lived in the Nashville area, read the article, which rekindled an interest in Electric Football for him...and he decided to attend the Convention and hopefully meet up with his childhood buddy.

While at the event, Chris took a walk around the Convention floor—and to his surprise, standing and watching a game in progress was his childhood pal, Anthony Fox, whom he had known since the first grade—but had not seen since they graduated from Lawrence County High School in Lawrenceburg, TN, in 1975.

LeMay and Fox, who lived just four blocks away from each other as youngsters, call Electric Football their “X-Box” of the ‘70s. They talked for a while in Memphis, and planned to get together to play; however, due to their busy lives, they sadly lost touch again.

Fast forward to January of this year. After driving nine hours, LeMay pulled up to the College Football Hall of Fame in South Bend, IN, to begin unloading his exhibit for the EFL Convention—and to his surprise, right next to him was Anthony Fox again!

“It just blew my mind to see Anthony in South Bend,” LeMay told PLUGGED IN!. This time the two men had the opportunity to talk during an entire weekend, reminiscing about old childhood friends and everything that had happened in their lives since they lost touch after high school.

“Chris and I had changed over the past 30 years,” Fox noted in an e-mail to PLUGGED IN!, “but it was nice to know that someone from the old neighborhood still shared the interest in Electric Football after all these years.”

LeMay is in the process of obtaining his certification in Pedorthics, while Fox works in the mental health field as an educator.

PLUGGED IN! hopes they are able to share their passion and exuberance for Electric Football with all those other Nashville Cats! ■

Force Base in Virginia. Originally from a small farm in Halifax County, VA, McGhee has been in the military for the past 12 years, all on active duty, and has also been stationed in California, Montana, Texas (twice) and Florida. One would guess that his wife of 11 years and his two kids must “enjoy traveling” as much as Jerry does.

Notes McGhee: “Military work is very challenging, the responsibilities are immense at times and you cannot beat the camaraderie and friendships that are generated by the military experience. Thus, Electric Football provides me with a great opportunity to relieve stress from day-to-day life and build new friendships with other coaches who love this hobby.”

McGhee even has his own website on how to make various Electric Football items for the do-it-yourselfer in the military: <http://members.aol.com>

/madlabber/main.html. “Electric Football is like a moving chess board to me, and to square off with the mind of your opponent is a real high for me. I enjoy learning from other coaches and sharing ideas with the coaches I’ve met. There are some very talented people in this hobby!”

One of these talented people can be found at Tinker Air Force Base in Oklahoma—USAF Major Ralph B. “Hawk” Hawkins, one of the Electric Football community’s most dedicated solitaire coaches. Hawk, a native of Colorado Springs, CO, told Plugged In! that he has been playing EF since 1969 and has remained loyal to the game throughout his 28 years in the Air Force.

Hawkins considers Electric football “a great escape from the ‘real world’—it allows one to recharge his batteries and escape into his own ‘world’ of sports that you can summon upon at any given moment.”

Another Air Force officer, Chief Master Sergeant James Wallrich, has carried his 32 years of playing Electric Football around the world during his 20 years in the military. Originally from Ashton, IA, and currently stationed at Randolph Air Force Base in San Antonio, TX, Wallrich remembers buying a SBXXI game in 1988 while in Ansbach, Germany, and thinks that today’s video games do not even compare to Electric Football.

“For anyone who has played or watches football, this game is definitely a means of relaxation and strategy—whereas video games (like Play Station) just create anxiety and require little tactical skill,” stated Wallrich. “This game fits well into a military lifestyle. I think Miggle could really make some headway by getting boards to deployed troops—I’m sure this game would be a big hit in the recreation tents and an opportunity to reintroduce the game to a lot of former players.”

“We agree with James,” stated EFL Commissioner Michael Landsman. “Now turn to page two of this Newsletter and see ‘EFL Unplugged!’—finally, every service man and woman in all parts of the world can enjoy Electric Football.”

Miggle Toys would like to thank all of the brave and patriotic service men and women around the world for their courage and patriotism—and wish them safety and success, as well as a quick and secure return home. ■

Major Jerry McGhee, while contemplating his next plan of attack, sets up a play.

Rick Harris, GM, Embassy Suites, stated: "We are thrilled to be the host of your convention, and we look forward to the 'buzz' of the electric boards, as well as the camaraderie that will be brought forth amongst the contestants. Hopefully, we'll be able to surpass expectations, and make for a 'wam January weekend' in Chicago."

HOW TO QUALIFY FOR THE OFFICIAL EFL SUPER BOWL 10

WILD CARD TOURNAMENTS

All 2004 EFL Convention attendees will be able to participate in the AFC or NFC Wild Card Tournaments, utilizing NFL EFL teams and special bases provided by Miggle Toys. Because of the delay in bringing the new ProLine bases to market, they will NOT be used in tourney play this year. Sign-up will take place at the Friday evening, Jan. 23, Welcome Reception & Dinner and at the entrance to the Convention on Saturday, Jan. 24, 2004, between 8:30-9:00 a.m. A blind draw will take place shortly after 9 a.m. on Jan. 24. The winner of each Conference Tournament will qualify for the NFL Championships Game.

LEAGUE CHAMPIONS PLAY-OFFS

For the third straight year, all EFL Leagues throughout the U.S. with six or more members are eligible to have their League Champion (or a designated replacement if the Champion cannot attend the Convention) compete in the League Champions Play-Offs at the 2004 EFL Convention. All leagues located East of the Mississippi River will be placed in the Eastern Conference Play-Offs, while all leagues located West of the Mississippi will be assigned to the Western Conference Play-Offs. If too few Coaches are entered in one of the Conference Play-Offs, Tournament Officials reserve the right to assign teams to a different Conference. League Champions will be provided with EFL teams and special bases by Miggle Toys on a random basis. The winner of each League Champions Conference Play-Off will qualify for the 'Championship' Game.

To register your League for a spot in the Eastern or Western Conference Play-Offs at the 2004 EFL Convention (required for admission into the competition), please fill out the form on Page 6 and send it to Silverman Media&Marketing Group no later than January 19, 2004.

GAME FORMATS

All Rounds of the Wild Card Tournaments and League Champions Play-Offs will be played according to Miggle's "Wild Card" Tournament Rules. The Semi-Final and Super Bowl games will be played in complete game formats according to Miggle rules. ■

Spotlight On: GREAT LAKES & DENVER EFLS

GREAT LAKES EFL HARBORS CHAMPIONS

Lake Superior is the largest one in the world. Lake Michigan is the only one totally located in the U.S. Lake Huron is characterized by shallow, sandy beaches and the rocky shores of Georgian Bay; while Lake Erie is the smallest in volume and is exposed to the greatest effects from urbanization and agriculture. And, finally, Lake Ontario, although similar to Erie in length and width, has a far greater average depth that allows it to hold almost four times as much water.

The Great Lakes EFL is looking forward to an exciting and competitive 2003 season.

These facts about the Great Lakes are interesting—but no more fascinating or exciting than the news that a Great Lakes Electric Football League has recently been launched in the Upper Midwest by some of the most accomplished and dedicated Electric Football Coaches in the land.

Decked out with this information, Plugged In!, recently spoke with Coach Jim Davis to get a behind-the-scenes look at the GLEFL, whose 2003-04 season will run concurrently with the NFL's campaign.

According to Davis and fellow GLEFL Coach Ken Allen, they originally began the organization in Ann Arbor as a spring league in 2001 with eight charter members, including Tony Johnson, who had recently returned to the game, and some childhood friends. Following the success of this endeavor, the GLEFL was officially formed that fall by recruiting coaches from the original Motor City EFL and other sources.

From the State of Michigan, the GLEFL has expanded its championship aura into nearby Ohio and Illinois. "Our goal is to have all 32 NFL teams represented in our league," says Davis, "We now have 18 franchises, but with our league changing from boiled to non-boiled basis, many more coaches have expressed an interest in joining our league."

Just like the Great Lakes, which provide so much beauty and so many important services for the people of the United States and Canada, the members of the GLEFL bring the best of sportsmanship and camaraderie to the game of Electric Football. "The people in our league are more interested in positively promoting EF and our league for further growth than always winning," Davis notes.

But win they do. And here is an impressive list of the league members' recent "championship" play:

- Jim Davis: Current Akron EFL Champion, going undefeated. Won the Motor City Bowl at the College Tournament in Ohio this year.
- Patrick Casey: Ranked #2 at College Tournament.
- Ken Allen: Won Fiesta bowl, ranked #3 at College Tournament. Has gone 30-2 in first two years of GLEFL.
- Tony Johnson: Won Orange Bowl game. Ranked #4 at College Tournament.
- Greg Hardmon: Won Cotton Bowl game. Ranked #5 at College Tournament.
- Patrick Morris: New to the GLEFL this year. Won a Championship in PA. this year.
- Martell Cooks: Runner-Up in Miggle Juniors tournament in Memphis in January 2002.
- Angelo Lassiter: Finished second in the Miggle Juniors Tournament at the Convention this year.

ELECTRIC FOOTBALL REACHES NEW HEIGHTS!

THE MILE HIGH CITY DENVER

When NFL players compete in Mile High Stadium in Denver, they say that the game is different—passes, kicks and punts travel further and higher...

and players get tuckered out more easily because of the thinner air.

Randy Williams, the man behind the creation of the new Mile High Electric Football League, centered in the Denver area, swears that the extra height also affects EFL games.

Williams, 52, has been playing Electric Football since 1962, and maintains he still has the same passion for the game that he had when he was 12 years old. He still possesses all of his original players from a Tudor game that featured "gorilla figures" more than 40 years ago—and jokes that some of the younger coaches in his league find it remarkable that he owns EF teams that are older than they are.

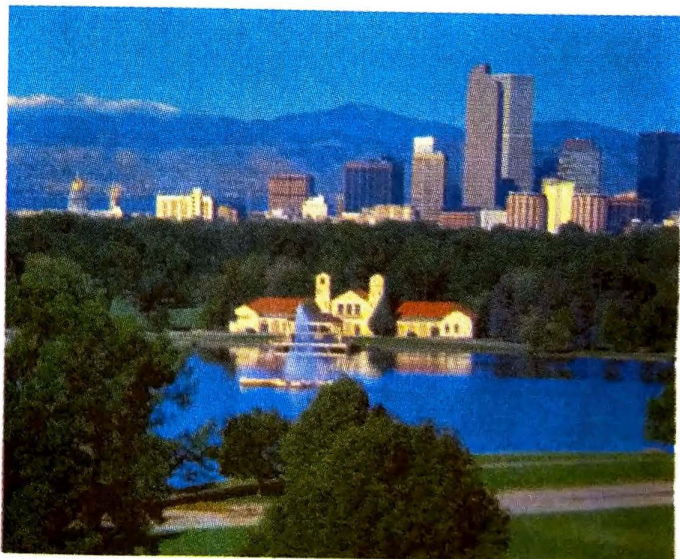

Williams' motivation to start an EFL league in the Denver area was quite different from the inspiration of many other EFL league commissioners and pioneers: "I've always enjoyed the many different challenges of Electric Football, like competition for who has the fastest figures or the strongest teams or the most unique paint scheme. These aspects of the game motivated me to search out others in the Denver area who still enjoy this fascinating game to form a league."

Tommy Verner, who contacted Williams last spring after seeing his name on the Miggle Toys chat board, is helping Williams unite their Electric Football playing friends and family members into what they hope will be a very competitive and fun filled fellowship for the Denver area. At press time, six coaches were signed up to play in the league in addition to Randy Williams and Tommy Verner: Frank Pulley, Donny Moore, Virgil Robinson, Anthony Williams, Larry Wrightsil and Anthony Verner.

Because it is the "Mile High EFL," anyone wanting to play from another state will have to bring "special" bases to compensate for Denver's thin air. "It's true," Williams contends, "Electric football at 5,280' is a faster game!"

Miggle Toys would like to wish the Mile High EFL a lengthy future to go along with its great height!

To contact the Mile High EFL, you can e-mail Randy Williams at Rtrannyman@aol.com. ■
