PITTSBURGH TO HOST 2005 OFFICIAL EFL CONVENTION

The beautiful Embassy Suites Pittsburgh-Intl Airport Hotel will host the 2005 Miggle Convention

It has been a part of the NFL for more than 70 years. It is known for the famed "Steel Curtain" Defense, for winning four Super Bowls in the 1970s and for sending 19 players and contributors to the Pro Football Hall of Fame. From the Rooney Family to Bobby Layne to Mean Joe Greene to Terry Bradshaw to Franco Harris—the names tumble off the tongue as a mosaic of the game of pro football from its very beginnings.

And now, a new football tradition is building in the Steel City. From January 28-30, 2005, it will reach completion when Miggle Toys holds its 11th Annual Official Electric Football Super Bowl & Convention in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania.

The host site will be the Embassy Suites Hotel Pittsburgh-International Airport, continuing a very popular tradition inaugurated earlier this year of providing our Convention guests with two-room suite accommodations and plenty of "perks" for the price of just a regular hotel room.

Once again, Michael and Delayne Landsman, owners of Miggle Toys, the exclusive manufacturers and marketers of official Electric Football games and accessories, are working hard to ensure that the 2005 annual Miggle Convention will be three days of constant activity, action, surprises, prizes and competition for adults, teens and youngsters. From the new format Super Bowl tournament and the ever-growing Jr. & Sr. Spark Bowl championships to the creative and entertaining exhibit booths and the unending supply of raffle gifts, the Miggle Convention has become a "must attend" among hardened Electric Football aficionados, casual fans and families alike.

Through the ceaseless efforts and unwavering professionalism of the Pittsburgh EFL, Electric Football has made great inroads into the Rooney Family, who own the Steelers, as well as with members of the team's front office, who make the day-to-day business and marketing decisions. Thanks to the PEFL, Electric Football has been

More games. More action. More excitement. More competition.

These are the some of the most frequent requests that coaches around the country have made to Miggle over the years about the Official Electric Football Super Bowl the company stages annually. And now, as we enter the second decade of our yearly mid-winter weekend extravaganzas, Electric Football League (EFL) Commissioner Michael Landsman has announced a widespread expansion of the Super Bowl championship that should gratify the competitive edge of every coach in the game.

When coaches, families, newcomers and others enter the ballroom of the Embassy Suites Hotel Pittsburgh-International Airport over the weekend of Jan. 28-30, 2005, they will see a full complement of 16 tables, all adorned with NFL Super Bowl Electric Football Games. It will be the largest "playing field" in the 11 year history of the Miggle Toys Super Bowl tournament—and will provide all participants with the most play time and competition ever.

Gone with the January wind is the "four-plays-and-out" format of years passed. In its place will be a round-robin tournament where coaches will be divided into two Conferences—the Dirk Thomas Conference and the All-Pro Conference—each with four Divisions consisting of up to eight teams.

After League Champions are seeded at the top of the brackets, each team will play every other team in its division in a Four-Play game, with

Commissioner

Welcome to another exciting season for all you Pro, College, Arena, High School, Pop Warner and Electric Football fans!

In the more than a dozen years that my wife Delayne and I have been privileged to own Miggle Toys, I have never been so excited or energized about the state of our hobby. I see great, electrifying things happening everywhere as our "EFL Family" grows larger, closer and more cohesive every day.

Perhaps the most thrilling announcements in this issue of PLUGGED IN! are the ones on Page 1.

First, we have awarded our 11th Annual Official Electric Football Super Bowl & Convention, to be held over the weekend of Jan. 28-30, 2005, to that hotbed of Electric Football action and promotions—Pittsburgh, PA. Let's all make sure that the Steel City is Buzz City in late January of next year!

Our second "lead" story on Page 1 describes how we have listened to all of your requests for an expanded format to our Official Electric Football Super Bowl Tournament, and are putting this new system into place at our Convention next year. As you will read, there will be more games, more competition and more excitement for everyone. I can't wait for the games to begin!

In this edition of PLUGGED IN! you also will find out about a popular Hollywood actor who has immortalized Electric Football in oils on canvas...about an exciting new "partnership" between the fast-growing Checkers/Rally restaurant chain and Electric Football, which will likely involve many of our regional EFL leagues... about a growing and highly-successful EFL league in and around our Nation's Capital...about the Buzz created by Miggle Toys' newest products... and much, much more.

One of our newest projects that I would like to tell you about here is a just-completed joint-venture—spearheaded by Dewayne Jennings—that involves the Testor Corporation, the top manufacturer of paint for the hobby industry. Now, with Testor's expertise and perfection, we will be able to offer a complete line of Official NFL Paints in official NFL Team Colors that will be available in your local sporting goods, toy and hobby shops, along with new EF products, in early 2005.

For our many customers, please know that our online store at www.miggle.com has become the most efficient way to order your favorite Electric Football products. Orders placed online—at your leisure—are generally shipped within 2-3 working days, which saves you both time and the inconvenience of using "snail" mail and waiting for your check to clear.

CHECKERS RESTAURANT CHAIN ORDERS UP ELECTRIC FOOTBALL FOR NEW AD CAMPAIGN

What do you get when you combine the nation's largest double drive-thru restaurant chain with America's all-time favorite tabletop football game?

Answer: A series of Checkers Drive-In Restaurants commercials featuring exciting Electric Football action.

That's right...beginning this fall, the popular Checkers drive-ins will be paying tribute to true football enthusiasts—while promoting its partnership with the NFL's Miami Dolphins and Indianapolis Colts and the NCAA's U. of Florida and Florida State—in new TV spots airing exclusively in those markets.

So how did this great "marriage" of hamburgers and buzzing game boards come about?

Let the Technical Advisor on this project tell the story...

"I was contacted this past summer by a representative of Marc Advertising, the agency of record for Checkers," EFL coach Rob Delmasse of Pittsburgh told PLUGGED IN!. "They asked me if I would be willing to lend a creative hand to an advertising venture that involved Electric Football.

With the blessings of Michael and Delayne Landsman of Miggle Toys, my wife and I loaded up our car and headed to Cleveland where the taping would be done.

"When I entered the studio, one of the first things I noticed was the Miggle Game board all decked out in one of Mark Kistner's field covers—a nice touch, I must say.

"My first question to the group was, 'Have any of you ever played this game?' After a prolonged silence, one of the crew hesitantly responded, 'I've heard of it.' It was at that point that I knew my work was cut out for me.

"They told me that they wanted to see a play that would show the tailback breaking through a hole and running for a TD. Hmm...talk about a pressure situation! With a room full of people watching, I set up the play. I can remember thinking, 'One chance only...and no warm-up?'

"The director said, 'Action,' the camera started rolling, and the game board was turned on. Along with the others, I watched in nervous anticipation as the players began to move. I think my heart skipped a beat. I stared in bewilderment as a huge hole opened up and the little guy ran clear for a TD!

"The crew exploded in applause as they heard the buzzing and watched the plastic gladiators on the monitor. It was another celebrated 'EF Moment' for the history books, but only those who know

GETTING CONNECTED WITH...TOM WILSON

Tom Wilson has the type of name that you might not remember. But he has a face, a voice and an acting resume that are hard to forget. Now, factor in his remarkable collection of original "retro" oil paintings—including one that portrays our favorite sports board game—and you have a truly memorable personality.

Tom is best known for playing the role of the protagonist Biff in the highly popular "Back To The Future" motion picture trilogy, and he will soon be co-starring in the animated feature film, "Sponge Bob Square Pants" (which opens around the country on Nov. 19, 2004), lending his voice to various characters. He has been featured in numerous films and TV series, has had his fiction published in several periodicals and has been a contracted writer for many top film and television studios.

But it's art that is now Tom Wilson's passion. He studied drawing and painting at the Art Academy of Los Angeles, as well as the California Art Institute, followed by extensive study in painting with top mentors. But, most importantly for us, Tom Wilson is also a big fan of Electric Football.

PLUGGED IN! had an opportunity to chat with Tom at the start of the 2004 NFL season about his art and his love of Electric Football. Here are the highlights of that conversation:

PLUGGED IN! (P!!) How do you describe your art?

Tom Wilson (TW): I call it "BIG POP FUN." I paint big pictures that glorify those aspects of pop culture that we all love and that I find beautiful in their own way. I mean really, isn't an electric football field just as beautiful as anything else? My bottom line is that I paint things that I would love to have on my wall to look at a lot. Fortunately, a lot of people are agreeing with me. I don't see any other artist out there painting these classic objects from our past. It's a lot of fun.

P!! Tell us a little about your background.

TW: I caught the tail end of the baby boom, and I was born and raised in Philadelphia—though I live in LA now for my acting career. I've been a professional actor for many, many years. I've always concentrated my energies in the arts, because years ago I found out that the arts are just about the only thing I'm good at. I can't do math, but I can act and sing and paint and write.

P!! How do you choose the various subjects for your art?

TW: I choose the subjects that pop into my head when I think about the objects that meant so much to me so many years ago. Yo-Yos, ray guns, Frisbees, table hockey and, of course, the King of Boys Games, Electric Football.

P!! How did Electric Football get in the mix?

TW: What boy didn't wish and hope and dream of Electric Football for Christmas? I still have a photograph of my 'stuff' on Christmas morning. A red bike leaning up against an NFL Electric Football Game. Who doesn't remember the thrill of setting up 22 players, only to watch the running back sprint towards the opposite end zone? It's a classic.

P!! How do you think Electric Football has changed since you were a child?

TW: After I made the Electric Football painting, I looked deeper into the Electric Football world and I was amazed that there's such a huge following! It's great. Hey, I'm so old that when I first saw the players with 'steer-able' bases I was blown away. My players were always "directionally challenged." But I played the game all the time, mostly with my brothers.

P!! In what mediums do you paint?

TW: I work in oil because it's the classic medium. It's odd, but exciting, to have a large classic oil painting that depicts an electric football field, don't you think? Oil is a difficult medium to work in, but it makes for a beautiful painting.

P!! In what formats are your Electric Football and other artwork pieces available?

TW: There's the original 40" x 26" 'Electric Football' oil on canvas for the real 'art aficionado.' We also have 29" x 19" and 20" x 13" limited edition (only 250 of each) signed and numbered giclée prints on canvas; and 24" x 18" signed open edition posters.

P!! How can our readers purchase one of your works?

TW: They can visit my Website at www.tomwilsonusa.com; 818-705-0211; or write to P.O. Box 18106, Encino, CA 91416.

P!! Any final words for us?

TW: Sure. Thanks for getting the 'buzz' going for my artwork in the Electric Football community!! ■

Miggle's soon-to-be-a-classic Power Pro Portable Electric Football Game is now available at the company's online store at www.miggle.com or through the order form at the back of this Newsletter. Battery-operated so it can easily be taken anywhere, this new, smaller version of our all-time best seller is also great for Arena Football League games.

2-4-6-8—Who do we appreciate?

Once again, it's Miggle Toys for bringing back their world famous #620 Electric Football Game Board in late November. Orders can be placed in Miggle's Online Store at www.miggle.com or by using the order form in the back of this Newsletter. Also available again: our Original Electric Football Game and Electric Baseball.

Time Out!

In the last edition of PLUGGED IN!, we reported that the new "PROLINE" Bases in multiple styles, along with New Figures in New Poses, were about 90 days from release. As perfection is taking a much longer time than we anticipated—and although we are very close—we will not release these new products until they are flawless. We apologize for this delay and will make an announcement on our Website closer to arrival time—which is expected between late October and December, 2004. ■

Kistner Field Covers Huge Hit With Coaches

Mark Kistner started making his field covers almost four years ago when he was disappointed with products that were available at that time. Since then, he has developed state-of-the-art covers that are totally removable, re-useable and rigid enough that they store easily and flat.

"Buyers tell me they love the details in the artwork, the way the grass looks so textured, the chalk lines, details like that," Kistner commented to PLUGGED IN! "I can customize any field for any condition, depending on what the person wants. I never print the cover without e-mailing the client a proof for approval to make sure that I have created exactly what they want."

Mark Kistner at home with a few of his Field Cover masterpieces

Kistner and Miggle now offer covers for all 32 NFL Teams, and every month feature a unique "Throwback" Cover of the Month on the Miggle website.

That's the story from the artisan. Now, here are a couple of testimonials about Mark's craftsmanship from a pair of satisfied customers:

From U.S. Army Colonel Dwayne Thomas, Ft. Meade, MD:

"I just received my custom-made Miggle/Kistner Field Cover, featuring the St. Louis Rams' home field, and it is BEAUTIFUL! A Work of Art! Initially, I was going to paint my own field, but I wasn't confident in my own painting skills. So I opted to find a vendor who could make a cover that would fit the big board (26.5" x 60") on which I play. I posted a question on the Miggle Chatboard, and that's how I found Mark Kistner.

"Mark is a skilled craftsman who did a masterful job on my field cover! Mark included all of the details characteristic of the Rams' Edward Jones Stadium field. Thank you Miggle Toys, Inc. and Mark for such a quality product!"

From Nathaniel Wells, Pastor at the Community Church of God & Christ in Benton Harbor, MI:

"The attention to detail that Mark Kistner puts into his work makes receiving each new field cover as exciting as playing on it. And the covers are so simple to change from one to another—the material is easy to place without getting any wrinkles or bumps on the field. Thus far, I have 12 custom field covers from both the NFC and AFC—and my goal is to own one from every NFL team. I like the custom covers a lot, not only because of the special feeling and realism they bring to the game, but also—when I am playing on a custom field cover—the bases seem to run smoother as compared to a regular field. I feel like I get more out of my bases."

Attention Parents: Miggle's Kids Contest Is Back!

Miggle hopes that all of our young EFL coaches are enjoying the current football season—and now we need some sideline action and creativity from you!

Since our Kids Contest last year was victimized by snail mail fail and an e-mail virus, we want to provide all children ages 8-16 with a second opportunity at a very fun assignment with exciting rewards.

Your mission, and we know you will want to accept it, is to send us a detailed story of no more than 150 words that is hand written or typed on the computer about your "Favorite Electric Football Experience." Make sure that it demonstrates just how much you love the game, and please include a picture of yourself with a game if you have one. We will publish the most exciting, informative and sincere stories in our Spring 2005 issue of PLUGGED IN! The winner will receive a Grand Prize and the runner-up will receive a Special Prize, too.

Please send your story, including your name, date of birth, home address and telephone number to Silverman Media&Marketing Group, c/o Electric Football Kids Contest, 100 Crossways Park West, Suite 111, Woodbury, NY 11797. Cut off date for this contest is December 15th, 2004, so get started. ANYONE CAN WIN!!!!

Coaches Seeking Leagues

The following coaches from around the U.S. are interested in joining leagues near their hometowns. PLUGGED IN! urges anyone who can assist or advise them to help out: Jamal Lockhart of Hialeah, FL: (305) 816-8832; Coach_J of the San Francisco Bay (CA) Area: (650) 349-0792 & johnjohn700@yahoo.com; and Coach Foreman of New Haven, CT: (203) 946-0096 & m.bushey@snet.net. ■ the coaches who finish with the best won/lost/tied record in each round-robin moving on to the Conference semi-finals. From this point forward, all matches will be played as complete games, as most coaches have requested. The victors in the semi-finals qualify for the Conference Championships, with those winners going head to head in the Super Bowl of Electric Football 11.

Otherwise, the playing and equipment rules instituted at the 2004 EFL Super Bowl will again be in effect in 2005. Thus, you will once more be encouraged to bring your own teams in both home and away uniforms, as well as utilize Miggle's Convention bases that you will be able to "tweak."

Heading up the Committee that engineered the changes that Miggle will be implementing in January 2005 were coaches Ron Bell, Aaron Johnson, Frank Johnson and Mark Klingbeil.

"My wife Delayne, who also was very pro-active in this project, and I would like to thank Ron, Aaron, Frank and Mark for so freely giving of their time and expertise to help us with this most difficult task," stated Michael Landsman. "Also, we feel that with these major changes, our Miggle Super Bowl will clearly be the Number One Electric Football Tournament of the year and will boast the best line-up of the best coaches in the country. We are a company that prides itself on listening to and reacting as positively as possible to the requests of our customers—and these expansions and variations in our Super Bowl tourney are just another example of this policy."

BELTSVILLE EFL GETS OUR VOTE IN DC AREA

Where else but in the Greater Washington DC area would you find an Electric Football League comprised of an FBI employee, police officers from a major city (Washington) and a large county (Prince Georges, MD), a military officer, a water department worker and, of course, the obligatory Starbucks manager and automobile salesman?

Founded in April 2002, the Beltsville EFL has already grown from 10 coaches in its first year to 18 signal-callers for the 2004 Pro season. With a dozen members living in the DC suburbs of Maryland and six residing right in the District, the BEFL has excitement, diversity, youth and creativity on its side.

So how did the League grow so quickly?

"We've successfully recruited coaches in two ways," noted Dearell Brevard of Suitland, MD, co-commissioner of the BEFL and a meter installer for the Washington Water and Sewer Dept. "First, we put up posters in a local Electric Football store. And of equal importance has been the popularity, accomplishments and drawing power of our coaches."

Ranging in age from 12 (Luke Sharpe, a student from DC) to 50 (Col. Dwayne Thomas, a career military officer from Jessup, MD), the coaching roster also includes one woman (Eunice Jefferson, a hairstylist from DC) and two father-son combos (Kelvin and Vaughn Lomax and Larry and Luke Sharpe).

According to one of the hobby's ranking systems, the BEFL features three of the top five coaches in the country—Kelvin Lomax, Adrian Baxter and Keith Chalmers. Brevard also boasts that the BEFL usually has at least one member place high in every local, regional and national tournament they enter every year. "Maybe this coming January we will get the elusive Miggle crown, too," he stated to PLUGGED IN!

League games are now generally played every other weekend at the Beltsville Community Center and the Beltsville Boys & Girls Club, although coaches do have the option to compete on other days, as well. Their Pro season begins in October and goes through January, with their Championship Game held the weekend prior to the Miggle Convention. The College campaign runs from March through June.

Not only are great competition, skill and camaraderie found in the Beltsville EFL, but there also is great gratification and creativity in and near our Nation's Capital. "Every league member takes pride in their coaching skills, more so than the looks of their team," Brevard pointed out. "However, with so many NFL and college teams changing uniforms every year, our league members want their squads to look the part. We add on all the new 'details' available—such as decals, face-masks, chin straps and painting eyes—to enhance our EF experience and to make the players come alive."

"And that is only half the battle," continued Brevard. "It is the work that goes into each base that makes your team perform at the highest level. We all work extremely hard in this area."

Yes, whether you are a Democrat or a Republican, it's great to hear that there is a group of people in and around Washington, DC, who are working hard, are totally dedicated and committed to their cause, who know what it takes to be victorious and who solve their differences peacefully and amicably.

To contact the Beltsville EFL, email Coach Brevard at footballwork@comcast.net or visit the league's Website at: www.leaguelineup.com/non/. ■

WHY I LOVE ELECTRIC FOOTBALL!

Instead of a "Memories" column in this issue of PLUGGED IN!, we thought the "thread" on the Miggle.com website, "Why I Love Electric Football," has especially profound meaning for all of us in an ever-changing world. How many of you can relate to the following accounts, or even have your own? If you have a favorite story you would like to have considered for a future issue of PLUGGED IN!, please e-mail it to info@miggle.com or post it on the www.miggle.com Chatboard.

Kelvin Lomax of Silver Spring, MD, writes:
"Here are some of the things I love about this game: Being able to recreate 'YOUR' version of football...being able to share friendships, concepts, ideas with others who have the same passion about this hobby as I do...having others wanting the secrets to your style of play and to help them improve...being able to compete against others who have gone from solitaire play to leagues to tournaments...finding that there are more players from my home area (one of the hotbeds of EFL in the country) than I ever realized."

Ken Clarke of Ithaca, NY, writes:

"I enjoy the hobby because it is a creative outlet. You can experiment with figures and bases and get a kick when you put together a figure and base that works! You can start with an unpainted figure and transform that figure into a work of art with paint or decals.

"In my case, playing almost exclusively with Throwbacks, you can relive your childhood and approximate the old footage you see on ESPN Classic. I can play an entire solitaire season with my beloved Baltimore Colts by recreating the old NFL Western Conference format."

Ben Neuhauser of Naperville, IL, writes:

"Childhood family issues, health problems, work stresses—these are all things with which Electric Football, at one time or another, has helped me cope by providing my mind with constructive engagement that took me away from things for awhile and helped me regain my perspective. I have always loved the fact that players and teams from my youth and young adulthood, and from all eras of the NFL and college, can once again come to life. Call it sentimental nostalgia, I don't care, it makes me feel good."

Al of Ravenna, MI, writes:

"This game does wonders for getting rid of the everyday stress that seems to grow worse as the years pile up. Painting is great therapy as it helps to clear the mind. If it wasn't for my little EFL guys, I'd probably be in the nut house by now.... If people would settle their differences by playing Electric Football instead of killing each other, imagine what a wonderful world it could be!"

part of the team's annual Draft Day FanFest, as well as the Steelers regular season promotions, for three years.

Adding to the excitement surrounding the 11th Annual Official EFL Super Bowl & Convention is the announcement made by Miggle of its new and expanded tournament format for 2005. Gone is the "four-plays-and-out" of years passed—in its place is what promises to be a very popular and competitive round-robin tournament format. (See additional story starting on page one about our new tournament format.)

About the Host Hotel

Conveniently located near the airport, this Embassy Suites property offers spacious two-room suites, a full restaurant and bar, indoor pool, sauna, outdoor whirlpool and 24-hour fitness center. Also included with your room rate are complimentary cooked-to-order breakfasts, evening cocktails, guest parking and shuttle service between the hotel and airport.

Miggle has been able to negotiate a remarkable rate of just $89 per suite per night, based on single or double occupancy. Children 12 years of age and younger stay free! Each suite includes a separate bedroom; a living area with sofa sleeper; galley kitchen with microwave, refrigerator and coffee maker; plus data ports, two televisions and a video cassette player.

"Pittsburgh has the ideal combination of a rich pro football history, a true love and appreciation for Electric Football, a convenient location and a wonderful Embassy Suites Hotel to host the entire event," stated Michael Landsman, who also serves as Commissioner of the Electric Football League.

Plan Now to Attend

The weekend will begin with the traditional Welcome Reception & Dinner (free) hosted by Miggle and produced by Delayne Landsman, wife of Michael Landsman.

"We are so excited to be coming to Pittsburgh and to be able to put our Convention into an Embassy Suites hotel again," Delayne noted. "Everyone was so comfortable and secure this past January that we all felt like one 'big happy family.' Now, wait until you see what we have planned for you at our 2005 convention!"

Make Your Reservations Early!

To be guaranteed the special $89 per suite per night rate, call 800-362-2779 or 412-269-9070 and ask for the "Special Electric Football Rate" prior to Jan. 13, 2005. ■

the game could really understand the relief I felt that the first play was a success."

The new NFL spots, customized for each team, are humorous take-offs on Electric Football games and the fans who live out their sports dreams in their game rooms. As the home team charges victoriously down the field, one of the coaches zooms a burger over the board—and the Checkers blimp is born! Soon viewers hear, "Hey, don't eat the blimp!" as temptation takes over.

According to Richard S. Turer, VP of marketing at Checkers Drive-In Restaurants, the spots have the funky essence of a home video "They are pure fun," he noted. "We feel there are numerous opportunities for marketing and promotional extensions around football fans in general—as well as electric football game fanatics."

For PLUGGED IN! readers in South Florida and the Greater Indianapolis area, the customized versions of the ad campaign will air on local network affiliates during games, pre-game shows and official team talk shows throughout the football season. The Checkers NFL team spots also will run on the jumbotron scoreboards during games in Miami and Indianapolis.

Rob Delmasse summed up the entire experience profoundly and in few words: "Electric Football has opened up way more doors and opportunities for me than I ever could have imagined!"

Miggle and the entire Electric Football community would like to thank Rob and Bonnie for a job well done (or rare or medium, depending upon your preference in great hamburgers)! ■

WHY I LOVE ELECTRIC FOOTBALL!

John "Rocky" Thompson of Lexington, OH

"When I was a kid, if my parents were arguing or if I had a bad day at school, I'd go to my hobby room and mentally jet away to San Diego or Denver or even Cleveland via my Electric Football game that day or night.

"As an adult, I've chosen corrections as a career, and dealing with inmates and, at times, staff is incredibly stressful—so stressful, in fact—that I usually long for the weekend by Tuesday, when I can enjoy all the things that relax me and make me happy. And, of course, one of those things remains Electric Football.

"Like a child, I can jet away from whatever is bothering me and relax somewhere else for a couple of hours as my Steelers and Patriots do battle. The buzz of the board, the anticipation of a play coming close to appearing authentic and simply trying too think like two opposing coaches is an incredible mental release. And I truly believe that the one or two games I'm able to play on the weekend are critical elements in allowing me to stay mentally sharp and on my game at work through the week."

Dr. Badgley of Michigan

"I've played this game since I got my first set when I was eight. I got it as a Christmas gift from my father, who had a set back in his childhood. I wasn't the most social kid on the block, so I would spend hours playing by myself with that set. I had my own league that has gone 54 seasons and counting; with 28 teams, it takes a while to play a season. I love this game because it's always there, it never breaks and it never lets me down."

Mike Pratt of Central, PA

"I can totally relate to this topic. I've dealt with incredible stresses from jobs, home, and life threatening health issues. This great game we all share has been a successful release for me throughout my life. I am so grateful and so into this hobby that I have (willingly) devoted an enormous amount of my time to it in public and private arenas. I really don't see that changing, even if I'm fortunate enough to see 70, much less 88.

"I've been playing since I was about 6 years old. I'm now 43. This game has provided me with a lot of solid plugs to patch the detrimental holes during my lifetime. I strongly believe that this is the most solid bond for the most dedicated members in our hobby." ■

Electric Football
Arriving for the Holidays!

BASES, BASES AND MORE BASES!!!

All new PROLINE BASES in 12 different styles. These bases have been designed for optimal play while meeting established hobby standards.

About the PROLINE BASES: After listening to your suggestions, we formed a task force headed by Mark and Bill Klingbeil and Mike Pratt, electric football "aficionados," for guidelines to make the best bases available. Their input, along with our engineer, allowed us to tailor our bases to fit the traits that real football players have. Plus, each base has our special "bumper-zone" technology that increases the impact when the new PROLINE BASES come in contact with other bases. We think you will be happy with the results!

PROLINE Strong Bases With A Straight Front

These bases are designed to be your offensive linemen, run-stuffing defensive linemen, blocking fullbacks and tight ends, and even outside linebackers and cornerbacks. Their strength, combined with an even flatter front traditional base, allows them to grab an opponent and hold them as they move down the field!

PROLINE Fast Bases With A Straight Front

These bases are designed with thin prongs to increase their speed. When their speed is combined with the straight front, you have GREAT cornerbacks, blitzing linebackers, roll-out quarterbacks, and "bruising" as well as "sweeping" halfbacks!

PROLINE Strong Bases With A Rounded Front

Imagine your defensive linemen doing a swim move outside the tackle, or your defensive tackle putting the pressure on the quarterback with a great rip move...

Now, these bases can combine speed, strength, and the ability to get off blocks as the base simply doesn't stay blocked for very long. Don't worry offense—these bases will double as your pass-catching tight ends and possession receivers.

PROLINE Fast Bases With A Rounded Front

Speed can change the scoreboard and that is what these bases offer!

With these special PROLINE fast bases (with the rounded front) your receivers will not stay locked at the line of scrimmage! The rounded front assures that they will release and go down field. To combat that certainty, line up one of these bases as your pass rush specialist and watch him go right around the offensive linemen and put pressure on your QB.

NOW, because of Miggle's "Position Programmed" PROLINE BASES, you are in control of "basing" your team! You design the strategy and decide which base is the best fit for each position. Then base your team according to your strategy with each base programmed for the position you want it to play. Remember, the more you control the action, the better the game gets!

DEFINITIONS:

Bumper-Zone:

Because of the law of physics, the new technology in each PROLINE BASE improves base strength and here is how it works. With the thinner front on the base, as it hits any other base, it stores the energy and stops the forward thrust of the other base. This releases energy and pushes the other base backwards.

Position Programmed:

There are 12 varieties of PROLINE BASES, giving each coach the ability to find exactly the type of base already programmed for every possible position. So, if a coach wants a strong base that can slide off linemen and can also turn in circles, the base that is already programmed to do that is the PROLINE Rounded Front TTC Base. Whatever your coaching needs, we have a base that will work for you!
