120 NHL STRATEGY

Endorsed by the NHL and NHL Players Association.

Box Size: 11 1/8" x 16 5/8" x 1 1/2"
1/2 Doz. Ctn. Wt. 12 Lbs.
Cube: .28

NHL Strategy has been developed with the cooperation of NHL and NHL Players Association. It duplicates the fast, intense action of actual NHL hockey with exacting statistical accuracy. All teams and each individual team player perform exactly as they do in official NHL games.

All 18 NHL teams are included, plus 18 individual player cards for each team, or 384 cards in total. Each team member is rated for his individual passing, skating and shooting abilities, and in addition, each player card shows the following:

Position, Control and Assist Ratings, Offense and Defense Ratings, Penalty Ratings, Player Time per Game and Number of Shots per game.

Offensive and defensive plays possible.

On offense the game participants decide starting line ups, substitutions, power play lines and short handed penalty killing assignments. Decisions must then be made if a passing or skating attack is the best way to move through the defense. In most cases, as in NHL Hockey, the closer the shooter is to the goal, the better are his chances for scoring.

On defense, each goalie is rated according to his ability to make saves, rebounds, stick saves, and his ability to make "outlet" passes. Forechecking and back checking defenses are possible. A special set of cards gives the defense a chance to stop any shot, if the section from which the shot is being taken is guessed beforehand. These cards also allow the defense to protect any area of the ice, especially from the goal hangers near the goal.

Penalties and injuries occur, making NHL Strategy the most realistic hockey game ever.
